Richard M. Dull

Director of Athletics

Dick Dull assumed the duties of Director of Athletics on August 1, 1981. He was appointed by the Board of Regents on June 19, 1981.

He was well qualified for the position taking over a department that he had worked his way through, beginning as a student athlete in 1964.

Everyone felt his biggest challenge would be maintaining financial solvency at a time of rising prices, especially in the areas of equipment, medical care, insurance, travel and scholarships. Competition for the entertainment dollar was also at its peak.

He immediately formed an advisory group within the department that could provide departmental input and at the same time serve as a liaison with the other members of the department. This group for instance was called together and informed of the final decision on the hiring of Football Coach Bobby Ross prior to any public announcement.

Morale within the department is at its best, the department has maintained its solvency and there is a bright outlook for 1982-83 in all sports.

Some of the highlights and challenges of Dull's first complete year as Director of Athletics include the selection of football Coach Bobby Ross; an upset victory of then top ranked Virginia in the last game of the basketball season and the subsequent selection to the National Invitational Tournament; Chris Weller's team advancement to the final four in the first NCAA Championship Tournament for women; and the women's lacrosse team's appearance in the AIAW championship game.

Even the ACC meeting became more of a challenge with negotiations for a new basketball television contract, the installation of a 30 second clock and three point field goal in basketball, and discussions aimed at improving recruiting guides and academic standards.

Certainly his Doctor of Laws, from the University of Maryland School of Law in 1971 and the experience gained as an Attorney at Law for four years contributed to his success and perseverance throughout the past year.

Since joining the Maryland Athletic Department his duties have encompassed everything from coaching on the field to scheduling, supervision and administration of all non-revenue sports, serving as liaison with the Office of Financial Aid, supervision and administration of the Business Office of Intercollegiate Athletics and the reorganization of the former Department of Women's Intercollegiate Athletics into Office of Non-Revenue Sports.

Since taking over as Athletic Director he has reorganized the promotions department with staff members serving as Director of Marketing and Director of Sales and initiated new Athletic Department publications designed to whet the appetite of sports fans interested in Maryland athletics.

He initially came to Maryland as a student-athlete from Biglerville High in Pennsylvania. He received his Bachelor of Arts as a Political Science major in 1967 and then moved on to the Maryland School of Law.

As an undergraduate he was a champion javelin thrower for the Maryland Track and Field team. His best competitive throw was 251 feet.

Among his many titles won while at Maryland are Atlantic Coast Conference Champion, Penn Relay Champion, and ACC-SEC Champion. While an undergraduate he placed eighth in the National AAU Championships.

His bar memberships include the Court of Appeals of Maryland and the Federal Court for District of Maryland.

He served from June 1971 to June 1973 as Attorney at Law, Legal Aid Bureau in Baltimore, Maryland and from June 1973 to January 1975 as Attorney at Law with the University of Southern California, National Senior Citizens Law Center. While with USC he served for a period as the Acting Director of the Washington office.

His hobbies include photography, fishing and motor sports. He was born on July 1, 1945.

Charles G. Driesell

Maryland's Winningest Basketball Coach

After 13 years in College Park, Terrapin Basketball Coach Charles G. Driesell has established one of the finest basketball programs in the nation at the University of Maryland. In doing so, he also helped increase interest in the sport throughout the area while building Maryland into a traditional power.

When Dreisell accepted the challenge at College Park to turn around a team that had not finished over .500 in three years, he immediately began to build a solid, winning program that packed Terp fans into Cole Field House to witness his exciting brand of basketball.

Driesell showed his fans the shape of things to come when his first Maryland team reached the .500 mark. From there, he has gone on to win 260 games in 13 seasons at Maryland, surpassing his four predecessors and becoming Maryland's winningest coach. In 24 years Coach H. Burton Shipley won 243 games, while Bud Millikan amassed 242 in 17 years. It took Coach Driesell just 12 seasons to accumulate 244 wins, averaging 20 per year.

Driesell brought a winning image to the University and wasted little time instilling it into the Terrapins. Only one other active coach has a better winning percentage than Driesell's .708 in 22 years as a major college head coach, including nine years at Davidson. In his 22 year career, Driesell's teams have averaged 20 wins a year, with a record of 436 wins against only 180 losses.

While building Maryland into a powerhouse, Driesell has also found time to develop many professional basketball players, a Rhodes Scholar, and three Phi Beta Kappas. Ten of his former assistant coaches have moved on to head coaching positions at such schools as Cincinnati, Davidson, George Mason, Point Park, South Carolina State, University of the District of Columbia, Virginia, Washington State, West Virginia and William and Mary.

Competing in one of the toughest basketball conferences in the nation, Driesell's Maryland program has also gained national prominence. No other ACC or NCAA team has ever been more proficient at shooting—his teams always rank among the nation's leaders in scoring, rebounding, free throw shooting and winning. He has never had a team out-rebounded while 12 of his teams have topped the 50 percent mark in field goal shooting. Thirteen of his teams have won over 20 games in a season as 11 of them have averaged over 80 points per game, including the Maryland team record of 89.9 set in 1974-75.

Driesell has had 13 teams ranked in the Top 20. Of his seven Top 20 teams at Maryland, five came in consecutive years. Seven of his Top 20 squads have been ranked in the Top 10, with four of them at Maryland. He has coached four conference champion teams and his 1972 Maryland squad won the National Invitational Tournament.

His Terps have also excelled in International competition, sporting a 16-1 record against some of the best teams in the world, including games against the USSR and Yugoslavian National teams. Maryland has beaten all six of the international squads that have visited Cole Field House while the Terps have also won the Eighth Intercontinental Cup Games in Mexico City in 1974 and the 1980 Kirin World Cup Games, held in Japan.

In his 13 years at College Park, over two million fans have visited Cole Field House to watch the Maryland Basketball Terrapins. The Terps have averaged 11,923 fans a date and 179,770 a season just to watch regular season games.

Driesell graduated from Duke in 1954 and began his coaching career as the Junior Varsity Coach at Granby High School in his hometown of Norfolk, Va.

He became Granby's Varsity Coach one year later but quickly advanced to Newport News High School where his teams compiled a 57 game winning streak while winning 64 of 70 games in two years. His overall high school record was solid with 97 wins and only 15 losses. He also coached the J.V. football squad to two undefeated seasons.

Driesell took over the program at Davidson College in 1960 and immediately began to demonstrate his coaching ability. His first team had the best record at Davidson in five years. His second team had the first winning season at Davidson in 13 years. By Driesell's third season, Davidson recorded its first 20 win season in 54 years of competition and gained national prominence.

Driesell led Davidson to six 20-victory seasons with six Top 20 teams of which three were Top 10. After leading Davidson to a 27-3 finish and Third place National ranking in 1969, he accepted the challenge of building a winning program at the University of Maryland in College Park.

At Maryland, Driesell wasted no time in transforming a loser into a winner. The Terps finished 13-13 that first year and 14-12 the next. By his third season at Maryland, Driesell led the Terps to a 27-5 record and the National Invitational Tournament Championship and an 11th place national ranking.

Maryland was ranked in the Top 10 for the next three years, finishing 23-7 in 1973 (Eighth in the nation), 23-5 in 1974 (Fourth on A.P., third on U.P.I.), and 24-5 in 1975 (Fifth in the nation). The Terps gained a berth in the Eastern Regional Finals in 1973 and the Midwest Regional Finals in 1975. Driesell's 1975 Terp squad also set an NCAA record for field goal accuracy, hitting 54.7 percent from the floor. For Driesell, it was the second time a team of his set the record, the first coming at Davidson.

In 1979-80, Driesell's Terrapins were picked to finish sixth in the ACC, but ran up an 11-3 conference record to finish first. With an overall record of 24-7, Maryland was ranked eighth in both wire service polls and finished second in the nation in field goal percentage, shooting 55.1 percent from the floor. It was the best percentage ever for a Driesell coached team.

The Terps lost in the finals of the ACC Tournament but advanced to the semi-finals of the NCAA Eastern Regionals. Post-season recognition came in droves for Driesell and the Terrapins. Driesell was named ACC Coach of the Year and District Coach of the Year. He produced a First-Team All-American forward in Albert King and an Olympic Team member in Buck Williams.

King was also named ACC Player of the Year and the ACC Tournament MVP while setting a Maryland single season scoring record with 674 points. Guard Greg Manning made ACC All-Academic honors for the third year in a row while leading the conference in both field goal and free throw shooting percentage, the first time any ACC player has won both titles outright.

In 1980-81 Coach Driesell once again guided his team to the Top Twenty finish. The 1980-81 Terps finished the season with a record of 21-10 and made their second consecutive appearance in the NCAA Tournament. It marked the seventh time that Driesell guided the Terps to 20 or more victories.

Albert King became the Terp's all-time leading scorer, finishing his career at the University with 2,058 points. Ernest Graham and Greg Manning also ended their careers among the top five in scoring. Graham finished fourth with 1,607 points, followed by Manning in the fifth spot with 1,561 points. Manning also established new marks for career field goal and free throw accuracy, hitting 58% of his shots from the floor and 86% of his foul shots.

In the ACC Tournament, the Terps once again missed by just a single point of bringing home the gold. After defeating Duke 56-52 in the opening round, the Terps came through with their most satisfying win of the year, defeating the Cavaliers of Virginia 85-62 in the semi-final game. Maryland lost in the finals to North Carolina, 61-60 but advanced to the second round of the NCAA tournament with an 81-69 victory over Tennessee-Chattanooga.

Last year, a season filled with slow-downs and stalls, was an adjustment period for the Terps. Gone were the dynamic senior trio of Albert King, Ernest Graham and Greg Manning. Also departed was Buck Williams, power forward, who opted for the NBA. Coach Driesell, a man whose preference is the fast-breaking, high-scoring game, knew his young squad would have to adjust—and that they did. Utilizing a number of spread-type offenses, the Terps provided basketball fans some outstanding contests. Among these was perhaps the game of the year, which nationally was deemed "the upset of the year." In front of a packed Cole Field House crowd, in the last game of the regular season, number one ranked Virginia was defeated in overtime by the Terrapins 47-46. Freshman sensation Adrian Branch, the Terps leading scorer, tallied a career high 29 points including the winning jumper over Cavalier Jeff Jones with three seconds left in the overtime period. Following the regular season the Terps were selected to play in the National Invitational Tournament, where they defeated the Spiders of Richmond 66-50, but were then eliminated by the Georgia Bulldogs in the second round.

Among the many recognitions Coach Driesell has received, one of the most precious has to be the NCAA "Award of Valor". Driesell became the first coach to receive the award when he helped save the lives of at least ten children and several adults from a townhouse fire near Bethany Beach, Delaware, in 1973.

Driesell, who was born on Christmas Day in 1931, has also been honored as a basketball player. A three sport player at Granby High School, Driesell was named All-State in 1950 when his team won the Virginia State Championship. He was also named the outstanding player in the state tournament and received a scholarship to attend Duke. The 1954 team he played on was ranked tenth in the nation and won the Dixie Classic.

Driesell and his wife, Joyce, are the parents of three daughters, Patty, Pam and Carolyn, and a son, Charles, who is a sophomore guard on the Maryland team. All are members of the Colesville United Methodist Church.

Academic Advisement

Jim Dietsch

Jim Wright

Intercollegiate athletics is an integral part of the total educational experience available to student-athletes here at the University of Maryland, but as the term student-athlete implies, their priorities lie first with the academics.

In the Spring of 1981, Jim Dietsch was named Academic Advisor for the athletic department and no one understands and appreciates that term more than he. Responsible for all academic matters concerning the men and women athletes participating in the 22 intercollegiate sports program, his specific duties include: planning, organizing and directing tutorial services; administering and organizing freshman orientation; and monitoring the academic performance of student-athletes throughout the semester.

With the academic advisor being so vital to the Maryland Athletic program, this past July the University hired Jim Wright to assist Dietsch in his duty toward the academic guidance of student-athletes. For the incoming freshman athlete, the academic advising process begins long before the start of classes. Dietsch explains that, "we evaluate each individual and assist them in their transition from high school to college." The process includes such facets as: class selection; explanation of academic rules; and proper instruction in the development of study skills and time management techniques. It is an attempt to avoid problems before they occur.

Records are kept on each athlete, charting his or her progress as well as grades. Assistance in the form of tutors and organized study sessions are taken full advantage of by the athletes. For first-year athletes there is a mandatory study period to be attended nightly.

Having been a former Terrapin head coach in soccer and an assistant lacrosse coach has enabled Dietsch to provide a mutual understanding between himself and the players. "I spend a great deal of time just talking with the kids, they understand me and I understand them. My door is always open," says Dietsch.

The advantage of a large university is that it affords the student with potentially unlimited opportunities, but with the athletes enormous commitment of time toward the honing of their skills, it is often difficult for them to utilize those resources available. Therefore the academic advising program is making an effort to keep the athlete involved in "the mainstream" of the university and get as many people involved in their education process as is possible.

Jim Dietsch and Jim Wright both come to their present positions with outstanding credentials.

Certainly no stranger to Maryland, Dietsch played on the Terps 1966 National Championship lacrosse team, before graduating in 1969 with a Bachelor's degree in Industrial Education. He later went on to obtain a Masters of Education degree from the University.

Jim Wright also received a Masters of Education from Maryland, but his undergraduate studies earned him a B.A. in Mathematics at Gettysburg College in Pennsylvania.

Over the years in which Dietsch has been involved in intercollegiate athletics he has witnessed an overall change in the players attitudes toward academics. "They just don't want to play four years of ball, they want to graduate and it's my job to see that everyone of them does just that," says Dietsch.

Since Jim Dietsch began his crusade three years ago, the academic advisory program has made tremendous progress toward that ever important objective. This past spring semester's academic results were the best ever. They indicated that the graduation rate for Terrapin athletes was higher than the average for the entire University student-body.

As is the case in the athletic arenas of competition, success also breeds success in the classrooms of the University of Maryland.

Cole Field House

Home of the Maryland Terrapins
Host of National and International Sporting Competition

Location, facilities, and a large sports oriented population makes Cole Field House and the University of Maryland a prime site for national and international sporting competition. Each year the fans of the Washington-Baltimore area are treated to sporting events ranging from the CYO-M Club Track Meet featuring many world class stars, to gymnastics, from basketball and to ping pong.

In addition to being the home of Maryland Terrapin Basketball, Cole Field House has been the site of many other basketball games featuring teams from around the United States and from around the world. Twice, Cole Field House has been the site of the NCAA Basketball Finals. In 1966, Texas Western upset heavily favored Kentucky 72-65 in one of the most exciting games ever played in the NCAA finals. Four years later, in 1970, Cole Field House was again the site of the championship game. UCLA, trying to win its sixth national title in seven years, and its fourth in a row, defeated Jacksonville, 80-69.

The 1977 Eastern Regionals marked the sixth time that that event had been hosted by he University of Maryland. The field included Kentucky, North Carolina, Notre Dame and Virginia Military (VMI). Prior to that year, in an earlier Regional Contest held in Cole, North Carolina, using a 20-foot jump shot by Charlie Scott with two seconds on the clock defeated Davidson College, 87-85. Other victorious teams were Wake Forest in 1962 when the Deacons topped Villanova 76-69, Duke the following year, led by Tournament MVP Jeff Mullen, defeated St. Joseph's 73-59, Princeton in 1965 topped Providence 109-69 behind a 41 point effort by Bill Bradley, and in 1967 North Carolina defeated Boston College 96-80.

International basketball squads also have visited Cole Field House. Teams from the Soviet Union, Iceland, Israel, Chile, Italy, Yugoslavia and Poland have all played here. Women's basketball has also seen international competition in Cole. In 1976 teams representing Taiwan and the People's Republic of China played on the Maryland campus. Other Competition Held in Cole:

Gymnastics—Olga Korbut, Nellie Kim, Ludmilla Tourischeva and other members of the Soviet National Team have performed in Cole before packed houses.

Wrestling—Maryland has three times been the host for the NCAA Wrestling Championships, in 1960, 1972 and 1978.

Track—For many years Cole was the site of the CYO-M Club Invitational, one of the top indoor meets of the season featuring national and international stars.

Ping Pong—In April of 1972 the floor of Cole Field House was used for a ping pong match between a team from the United States and a team from the Peoples Republic of China. The match was the first sporting event held in the United States between the two nations.

Volleyball—In September of 1975 the National Volleyball team from the Soviet Union visited Cole Field House and met the United States National Team.

LEN ELMORE

On Coach Driesell:
"Overall I think in the three years we played basketball we were never underprepared for any particular game. We were never lacking for direction and knew what was expected of us as a team and as indivuals."
"In my game, Coach taught me to recognize my strengths and accentuate them and helped me to realize my weaknesses and work to develop them into strengths. He was and is a prime motivator."

On the ACC:
"One thing that sticks out in my mind is the degree of competitiveness within the league. Not that other leagues aren't competitive, but in the ACC basketball is almost a religion. People seemed a bit more fervent in the belief of their team. The intensity was unreal."

On Maryland
"I couldn't have been happier with my choice. Maryland is very much a cosmopolitan school. It is in close proximity to our seat of government and the entertainment and cultural offerings of the city are unsurpassed."

GREG MANNING

On Maryland's Location:
"I think that there is something very special that College Park offers to its students, that being the certain special people that have dual careers such as teaching here at the University and working at the same time in a variety of fields in government and corporate enterprises. So what you get is an education that goes beyond the textbooks.

On Coach Driesell:
"He was not only a coach on the floor but a man who cared about what you did when you left Maryland. He was not only concerned with your basketball career but with your career after the playing days ended.—As far as on the court goes, I can't remember any point in any game that we weren't prepared for . . . never did I feel a situation presented itself that we, as a team, couldn't handle."

On the ACC:
"The best league in the country, by far.!"

BUCK WILLIAMS

On Playing in Cole Field House:
"You've got 14,500 people screaming down your throat . . . and here you are, a country boy or a city boy . . . it's unreal and you've never been in a situation of that sort. It's very tough to get used to being there but I wouldn't trade it for the world."

On Playing in the ACC:
"Playing in the ACC really brings the best out in all players, because each night you know you will be playing against some of the toughest players in the country. So it really makes you dig deep within yourself. You go out and you jump higher than you've ever jumped before . . . you run faster than you've ever run before. I think the ACC is the greatest league in the whole world."

On Maryland:
"I think the University of Maryland made the difference (in me) in expanding and developing my game as well as my overall education. I came to a great University which exposed me to different areas of education as well as basketball. I felt we had the best basketball program in the country as well as one of the finest coaches in Lefty Driesell."

Talk About Maryland

TOM McMILLEN

On Coach Driesell:
"Coach Driesell is a very tough thorough coach who tries to cover every phase of the game of basketball from the fundamentals to the motivation. Everything that revolves around you as a student athlete, he tries to cover and that's very important."
"The greatest thing that Coach has going for him is his enthusiasm and great feeling toward victory. I think very few people have his dedication and willingness to sacrifice . . . and that's what makes him a great coach."

On Maryland — its Campus, its People, its Opportunities:

"In coming to Maryland from a small town, I was thrust into a vibrant, active place — a place where thousands of students and faculty and people intermingle everyday. Size, people can sometimes criticize, but size also means diversity and diversity means that you have a chance to get what you want and that's an important factor in a University."

ALBERT KING

On Coach Driesell:
"Playing for Coach Driesell was a great experience. He's a fun-loving man, but then again, he could be a discipline man. And that's what everyone needs — discipline . . . not only for basketball but for life itself. He really gets you up for every game."

Preparation for the Pros:
"The offense was set as a pro-set. We passed the ball, ran the fast break, played man to man defense. This is something you have to do to prepare yourself to play in the pro ranks and something to be very conscious of when you're selecting a school."

Upon Leaving MD:
"Something I'll really miss is just the closeness. I'm sure it sounds a little corny, but it's something that I found personally to be true — that Maryland was just a great experience for the whole team."

DUTCH MORLEY

On Coach Driesell:
"Playing basketball at the University of Maryland under Coach Driesell is something that I will never forget. He is an intense individual who is involved in each person as an individual as well as a basketball player."

On Maryland:
"Knowing that I planned to stay in the Washington area following graduation, Maryland became the logical choice of school — a choice I'm glad I made and wouldn't change if I had to do it again. Attending the University gave me the opportunity to meet many prominent people while also taking part in a basketball program that ranks among the best in the nation."

Playing in Cole:
"The emotions surrounding the basketball program and every basketball game is incredible. The 14,500 fans that packed Cole Field House for nearly every home game was an experience I'll never forget."

Campus Leaders

Dr. John Sampson Toll

PRESIDENT
UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND

John S. Toll, the 22nd president of the University of Maryland, has become a vital force for higher education in the State of Maryland.

The drive behind the Toll presidency is a pledge that "with a determined effort from everyone concerned, the University of Maryland can, in about a decade, become one of the best state university systems in the nation."

Since he became president on July 1, 1978, the University has developed planning documents for the Eastern Shore and Baltimore County Campuses: has initiated multi-campus programs which utilize the resources of the College Park Campus and the University of Maryland at Baltimore; is helping to develop plans through University College for a national television education system: and has raised undergraduate admission standards.

More than $465,000 in grants, including a $190,000 Carnegie Foundation award, were obtained in the first eight months of the Toll presidency to assist Dr. Toll in developing his "Agenda for the 80s," a plan to assure that the University will meet future societal needs. The Carnegie grant will fund an intensive study of the University's roles and missions by a team of educational experts. The results of the study may make the University of Maryland a model for other universities.

Dr. Toll first came to the University in 1953 as professor and chairman of what was then a six-man physics department.

Dr. Toll received his undergraduate degree in physics from Yale where he graduated with highest honors. His advanced physics degrees were earned at Princeton. An avid jogger, camper and tennis player, Dr. Toll and his wife Deborah have two daughters.

CHANCELLOR
COLLEGE PARK CAMPUS

A fateful phone call from the White House two years ago had John B. Slaughter packing his bags in Washington — the state — for Washington, the nation's capital. Destination: The National Science Foundation. Position: Director.

Handpicked by then-President Jimmy Carter, the appointment of the Kansas-born scientist-educator won quick and sweeping approval from top leaders both inside and outside NSF. But the strong backing and subsequent U.S. Senate confirmation was small wonder. The first black to head a major federal science agency, Slaughter took the position with a portfolio already stamped with success.

On January 15, 1983, Slaughter will step down as head of the government's $1 billion-a-year science foundation to become the third Chancellor of the University of Maryland College Park campus. Praising the key University appointment, the Baltimore Sun, in its editorial of June 12, 1982, trumpeted: "In academic and scientific circles, John B. Slaughter is a heavyweight . . ."

A Ph.D. recipient in engineering physics from the University of California at San Diego, Slaughter's credentials are impeccable. From 1960 to 1975, he worked at the Naval Electronics Laboratory Center in San Diego, where he became head of information Systems Technology Department and was named Scientist of the Year. In 1975, the University of Washington successfully recruited him as director of their renowned Applied Physics Laboratory. Under his leadership, the staff grew from 180 to 240 strong and maintained its competitive edge in the fields of underwater acoustics, underwater vehicles and physical oceanography.

While at the University of Washington, his work captured the attention of NSF which in 1977 appointed him assistant director for astronomical, atmospheric, earth, and ocean sciences.

After finishing his first tour of duty at NSF, Slaughter returned to the world of academe as the newly appointed academic vice president and provost at the smaller Washington State University.

Looking ahead to serving as Chancellor of the University's main campus, Slaughter sees among the new challenges facing him: continued strengthening of academic programs across the entire campus, improving the quality of life of students, faculty and staff, and attracting more academically talented Maryland students and particularly minorities to enroll at UMCP.

Athletic Staff

COL. TOM FIELDS
Maryland Education Foundation

Tom Fields has reached a goal that many said could not be achieved when he took over as Executive Director of the Maryland Educational Foundation in 1970.

For the past fiscal year the funds generated by the Educational Foundation totaled $1,250,000. When Fields returned to the University of Maryland the contributions to the Educational Foundation were minimal. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970 the contributions were approximately $30,000.

The membership of the Terrapin Club has expanded accordingly from the 132 original members to 1,900. The club in addition to the contributions to the Educational Foundation supports the athletic program in many other ways, especially with their attendance at the events. Over one half of the contributors did not attend the University of Maryland but all are strong supporters of Intercollegiate Athletics and its principals of competition.

The funds provided by the foundation have enabled the Terrapins to develop a Women's program that has also gained national recognition. The scholarship program for the women athletes is on a par with the program for the men's non-revenue sports.

The Terrapin Club membership currently includes 40 life members ($10,000 contribution), 49 Super Terrapins ($2,500 annual contributions), 543 Diamondback members ($600 annual contribtuion).

Fields, a retired Colonel from the Marine Corps returned to Maryland in 1970, where as a track star he helped lead the Terps to one of their finest days ever at the Penn Relays winning three Championship of American relay races. During World War II he served in combat in Guadalcanal, Vella Lavella, Bouganville and Iwo Jima. He also served in Korea and Vietnam and at the time of his retirement from the Corps he was the Deputy Director of Information, Headquarters Marine Corps.

The University of Maryland

In 1807 the University of Maryland was founded in Baltimore as the College of Medicine. An entirely faculty-owned institution granting the M.D. degree, it was the Nation's fifth medical school. Five years later its name was changed to the University of Maryland and was given the power to confer additional degrees.

In 1856, a group of Maryland people prevailed upon the General Assembly "to establish and endow an agricultural college in the state of Maryland." Thus, the second institution, first called the Maryland Agricultural College, came into being at College Park.

After a disastrous fire in 1912, the state acquired control of the College and bore the cost of rebuilding. In 1920, the state took over the faculty-owned University of Baltimore, merging it with the State-owned institution in College Park to form the present-day University of Maryland.

Today, the University of Maryland can best be described as a spectrum of opportunity. It is a university which provides unequalled opportunities, but which also presents a very real challenge. The University offers a wealth of options for today's student.

Location

The University is settled in what has to be considered one of the finest locations of any college in the nation.

The Baltimore-Washington, D.C. corridor has one of the richest concentrations of resources and intellectual talent in the world today. The area is also perhaps the world's leading location for scientific research and development.

Nine miles from College Park rests the nation's capital, containing many of the country's finest research facilities: the Library of Congress, the Shakespeare Library, the National Library of Medicine and Agriculture.

In this area of exceptional opportunities, Washington provides cultural and entertainment facilities that only a major city can contain. The famous Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts is home of the National Symphony Orchestra and headquarters of the American Film Institute.

For the sports-minded individual, the area supports professional teams in football, hockey and baseball. The Capital Centre in nearby Landover, Md., also hosts numerous other entertaining extravaganzas.

A 35 minute drive north of College Park will take you to one of the great port cities of the world, Baltimore. Known for its strong sense of neighborhood identity, the city's varied ethnic populations, industrial complexes and lively cultural life make it an ideal neighbor to Washington.

College Park Physically

Today, the University of Maryland at College Park is described as a Georgian Colonial campus, with more than 200 buildings spread across a 1300 acre park-like setting. The College Park campus is a city of young people with all the advantages, excitement and problems of a community.

The campus has its own daily newspaper, police department, an 18 hole golf course, hotel, stores, restaurants, theatre, movie house, art gallery, pub, bowling alley, tennis courts and swimming pool.

More unusual yet for a city of any size are the University's own nuclear reactor, wind tunnel, comprehensive Computer Science Center and one of the largest academic library systems in the country.

Academically Enriched

Noted for the academic strength of its programs, UMCP is one of 51 members of the prestigious Association of American Universities. It is currently the seventh largest University in the nation and with such size comes quality. This means not only better facilities in the day-to-day classroom, but also in the research and faculty staff. The staff consists of over 6000 personnel, which brings the student/professor ratio down to 17-1. This allows Maryland to offer a degree in a variety of fields. More than seventy percent of all undergraduate classes hold fewer than 30 students, and large lecture courses include small-group discussions or laboratory sessions. Case-in-point of a large university with a personal small college flavor.

Student Unity

The University hosts more than 300 clubs and organizations; service, social, and special interests of all kinds. They are as diverse as the interests of the large student body, from the academically prestigious Phi Beta Kappa to the flying and skydiving club and religious organizations. But nothing on the College Park campus draws as large and diverse a crowd as do Terrapin athletic events — all there with one common bond, for one reason, to witness Maryland athletics at their finest and root for teams that traditionally provide plenty of excitement.

There's no doubt that the area encircling College Park and the University itself attract a variety of some of the most influencial and important people in the world.

In the 1982-83 season, the Terrapin basketball team finds itself to be just as varied in personality and character. One unequalled facet of any athletic team is its ability to bring forth a "closeness" between the players, no matter what their background. This is certainly true for the Maryland basketball team.

Hailing from nine states and the District of Columbia, each individual student-athlete brings to campus with him a vast resource of unique experiences and ideas fostered by their differing backgrounds and environments.

In 1982-83 athletes on the College Park campus no longer reside together in a single dormitory, apart from the remainder of the student body. All living together now, the Terrapin athletes and the student body can share their unique characteristics, and experience excitement of the University of Maryland athletic program.

Terrapin Notes

TERPS TOP TWO-HUNDRED

During the period from 1973-1982 Maryland has won 206 games overall. Of all ACC teams that have continuously been in the conference, North Carolina and North Carolina State are the only other two teams to win more than 200 games during the same period. These three teams are also the only teams to have winning records in ACC regular season play during those 10 years.

DRIESELL SUPERIOR VS. NON-CONFERENCE FOES

Against non-conference opponents coach Driesell sports an amazing 156-27 record since taking over the helm of the Terrapins. That translates into a winning percentage of 85%.

ACC RANKS AMONG NATION'S BEST

Six current ACC teams have been ranked in the Top 10 polls since 1973. Maryland has been ranked four times in the Top 10 on both the AP and UPI polls. The AP has ranked North Carolina six times in the top ten, N.C. State three times, Virginia twice and Duke and Wake Forest once each. UPI has ranked North Carolina seven times, N.C. State three times and Duke and Virginia twice.

MARYLAND PLAYERS PLAY FOR THE BEST

Coach Driesell is most proud of the fact that every high school player he has recruited for the Terps since his arrival in 1969, has played on at least one nationally ranked team during their four year career. Also, in his nine years at Davidson, each player he recruited there, played on a Top 10 team.

TERPS DRAW A CROWD

Over 2.3 million fans have come to Cole Field House to watch the Terps since Driesell took over the team 13 years ago. For the past 11 years Maryland has led the ACC in total attendance averaging 202,793 fans per season and 13,358 per date. The year before Driesell came to College Park the Terps drew 66,500 for 10 games—an average of 6,650 per game.

LEFTY'S TERPS ADVANCE

Lefty Driesell's Terrapins have advanced to the semi-finals of the ACC Tournament 8 times in the past ten years, a feat equalled only by North Carolina. The Terps have gone on to five championship games under Coach Driesell.

TERPS IN THE ACC TOURNAMENT

The Terps are only one of three teams in the ACC that have won over ten ACC tournament games during the past ten years. Maryland has won 11 ACC Tournament games since 1973 while North Carolina has won 16 games and Virginia 10.

NATIONAL RANKINGS

In Coach Driesell's 22 years of tenure as a head coach on the collegiate level, he has guided 13 teams to top 20 national rankings. On 8 of those occasions, they have been in the top 10.

FORMER TERPS EXCEL IN THE NBA

Three former greats of the University of Maryland enjoyed outstanding years this past season in the National Basketball Association. Gene Shue, former Maryland All-American, was selected Coach of the Year as head coach of the Washington Bullets. Power Forward Buck Williams was the recipient of Rookie of the Year honors as he starred for the New Jersey Nets. It wasn't the first time Buck received such an award, as he was named Rookie of the Year in the Atlantic Coast Conference as a freshman in 1979. And another All-American, Len Elmore, had a strong finish this past season and was third runner-up for "Comeback Player of the Year."

BRANCH TALLIES MOST MINUTES

Adrian Branch was the only Terp to start all 29 games last year, averaging 15.2 points per game while playing nearly 34 minutes per contest.

DRIESELL'S TEAMS SET NEW RECORDS

One major characteristic of all Coach Driesell's teams has been their ability to shoot well. When Driesell was at Davidson his team was 2nd in the nation in Team Field Goal Percentage in 1965 (.509) and 1966 (.512). His 1964 team set a new NCAA record with a .543 percentage. After coming to College Park his teams continued this excellence, for the Terrapins were 2nd in the nation in 1974 (.510) and 1980 (.551). They also led the nation in 1976 with a .537 pct., and a new NCAA record in 1975 with a shooting percentage of .547.

DRIESELL TWICE COACH OF THE YEAR

Terrapin Coach Charles G. Driesell has twice been named this honor in his thirteen years at Maryland. The first time came in 1975 when he led Maryland to a 24-5 record and fifth place in the National rankings, along with a first place ACC finish. The second time came in 1980 when the Terrapins were ranked eighth nationally in both wire service polls with a 24-7 record.

ALL-TIME TERP CAREER SCORERS

In 1981 Albert King became Maryland's all-time leading career scorer with 2,058 points, surpassing John Lucas's 2,015 points. All of the top ten career scorers at Maryland are products of Coach Driesell except Bob Kessler (1953-56), who is seventh and Washington Bullet Coach Gene Shue (1951-54), who is fourth on the all-time list.

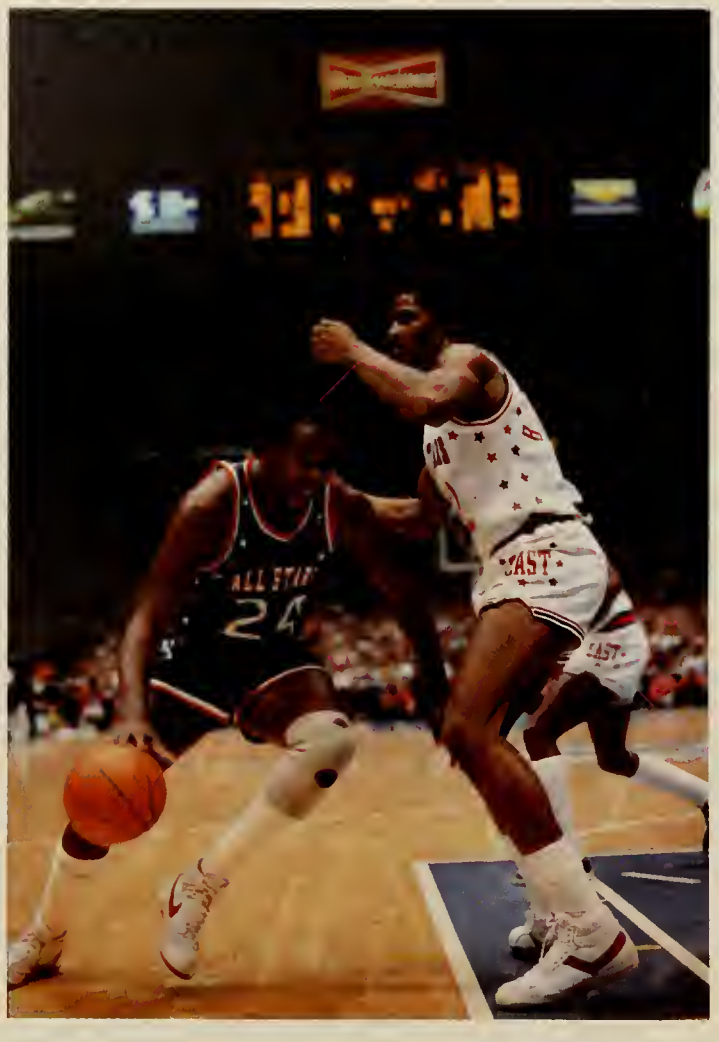
NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Terp forward, Adrian Branch was one of only two sophomores named to the 1982-83, Sporting News, Pre-Season All-American Checklist. The list consists of the Top 50 possible All-American candidates in the nation.

Freshman forward, Len Bias was also recognized and honored by the Sporting News. He was named to their High School All-American team, consisting of the Top 60 high school seniors in 1981-82.

Terrapin Olympians



The ultimate individual reward in the world of intercollegiate athletics is to be named an All-American and to hopefully go on to represent the United States in international competition.

Three Terrapin basketball players have earned such berths on the prestigious United States Olympic Team, with all three being selected in the past three Olympic years.

Tom McMillen, who ranks as the number three career scorer in Maryland history, became the first Terp to represent his country. The three time All-American center for Coach Driesell, helped the 1972 U.S. Team, coached by Henry Iba, earn a Silver Medal.

A Rhodes Scholar and eight year veteran of the N.B.A., he is currently playing for the Atlanta Hawks.

Steve Sheppard, known to Maryland fans as "Bear," was selected to the 1976 Olympic team. An integral force in leading the Terps to three national rankings, he also provided that same force in helping the U.S. team, coached by Dean Smith, in its triumph of the Gold Medal in the '76 Games in Montreal.

Buck Williams, Maryland's tenacious power forward for three seasons was the last Terp honored, when he was chosen for the 1980 Olympic team. The team went on to a 4-2 record against various NBA All-Star teams and also defeated the Gold Medal winning 1976 team.

This first-round draft pick of the New Jersey Nets, third over-all, is Maryland's second all-time leading rebounder and is certain to be a player to be reckoned with in the N.B.A., after being named Rookie of the Year in 1981-82.
